Mount Union students, faculty, and staff who wish to travel to a Restricted Travel Location must petition to request special approval. This policy applies to undergraduate and graduate study abroad, faculty-led travel seminars, service-learning trips, professional and conference travel, or any university-affiliated activity that seeks academic credit, university funding, or financial support.

Policy Details

For traditional study abroad and faculty-led travel seminars, a committee consisting of the Center for Global Education staff, the Director of International Student Services, and the Director of International Student Admissions will review all petitions and make a recommendation to Presidents' Council to approve or deny travel. There is no appeal process once a decision has been made. Should conditions change prior to the start of or during a program, the Center for Global Education may reevaluate the decision to allow travel to the program location(s).

For traditional study abroad programs, the individual must submit a petition and, if approved, sign an additional travel waiver. For faculty-led travel seminars and other university-affiliated group travel, the trip leader must submit a single petition for the group, and, if approved, all participants must sign an additional travel waiver. There will be an additional mandatory safety abroad orientation for all participants travelling to a Restricted Travel Location.

A Restricted Travel Location is defined as any location for which:

- the U.S. Department of State has issued an overall Level 3 Travel Advisory
OR
- the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has issued a Level 3 Health Warning

If an individual wishes to travel to a country in which the U.S. Department of State has issued an overall Level 1 or 2 Advisory but contains areas of Level 3 or 4 and the individual does not plan to travel to or through any Level 3 or 4 areas, he/she must discuss the risks with the Center for Global Education and sign an additional travel waiver, but does not need to complete a full petition.

Individuals are not permitted to travel to locations in which the U.S. Department of State has issued an overall Level 4 Advisory.

Please consult the U.S. Department of State website and the CDC website for country-specific information.
