April 25: Online Earth Day event

On April 25, we'll host an online Earth Day event with climate scientist Dr. Katharine Hayhoe as our keynote speaker. Having this online event gives us a chance to connect and build up our advocacy skills while many of us are sheltering at home. And for any friends or family who have additional time now and want to get active on climate change, this event offers a great way for them to get involved, too.

We're dedicated to addressing the climate crisis
